ACBL, ABA join for Special Day tomorrow

Tomorrow is a special day for American bridge — it will feature the first day when games will be run jointly by the American Contract Bridge League and the American Bridge Association at a North American championship.

Here's how it's going to work. Any game that starts and ends on Tuesday will be part of the joint program. Any player competing in one of these games will be able to choose which organization he wants the masterpoints he wins credited to. If a player wants ACBL points, he should enter his ACBL number. If he wants ABA points he should enter his ABA number.

What does it mean — begin and end on Tuesday? Well, there will be some nationally-rated events — since these do not start and finish on Tuesday, they are not part of the special day. Also there are some knockout events that are spread over more than one day — these also will not be part of the program.

This special day is an outgrowth of the work done by the ABA-ACBL liaison committee, with Henry Belle leading the way in the ABA and Barbara Nist in the ACBL. Harriette Buckman came up with the name for the program — Building Bridges for Bridge.

Ed West, Northwest regional vice president of the ABA, and Glenn Smith, ACBL president, are joining forces to make this a memorable day. Both organizations have the common goal of becoming part of the United States Bridge Federation, which will be the sanctioning body that will apply for Olympic involvement. The organization that applies for Olympic recognition has to be national, not international like the ACBL.

A special meeting of persons involved in the liaison between the ACBL and the ABA will take place tomorrow morning in Smith's suite. Among those present will be Henry Belle and Howard Pilch, the men who have been working toward tomorrow's big day for almost a year. The first ACBL-ABA Day was supposed to take place at the Boston NABC last fall, but a schedule conflict forced cancellation.

The first ACBL-ABA Day at an ABA tournament will take place at the ABA Nationals in Reno next March.

Zia, Rosenberg wear LM Pairs crown

Zia Mahmood and Michael Rosenberg topped the field in the first final session of the Life Master Pairs and never relinquished the lead in the second session to win the prestigious three-day event by two full boards.

They scored 1726.93 matchpoints (top on a board was 51) to outdistance the second-place pair of John Mohan and Sam Lev who posted a score of 1624.94. Mohan and Lev were the defending champions in the event.

This was the first win in an NABC pair event for Zia and Rosenberg as a partnership, although they each have multiple NABC wins with other partners. Most recently, Zia won the 1999 Mixed Board-a-Match Teams playing with Karen McCallum, Lynn Baker and Matt Granovetter. In 1998, he won the Blue Ribbon Pairs playing with Howard Weinstein. Rosenberg's last victory in an NABC pair event came playing with Bob Hamman in the Blue Ribbon Pairs in 1993. Rosenberg was also a member of the winning Vanderbilt team in 1994.

In third with a score of 1615.69 matchpoints were Eric Greco and Mike Passell.

ACBL dues to be $32 next year

ACBL dues will rise to $32 starting in January, 2001, an increase of $2 over present rates. The increase was passed by the ACBL Board of Directors at their deliberations here last week.

The ACBL has suffered a deficit for the past two years due to the increases in the cost of living and some of the new programs that have been inaugurated. In addition, the cost of participation in the World Bridge Federation has risen as the world's bridge organizations prepare to join in the Olympic movement.

Corresponding increases will be made in the other dues categories and service fees to preserve their current relationship to the regular annual membership dues level, to the nearest 25 cents.

Son wins knockout named for his father

One player who was especially interested in the Howard Weber Memorial Knockout Teams was his son Michael of San Diego. Michael celebrated in the most appropriate way possible — he won his bracket of the event. Michael's father died a year ago, and his friends decided to honor him with a memorial event.

Michael was partnered by Joe Rubin of San Diego. Also on his team was Dan Molner, Howard's regular partner for many years.

TAP still going strong

Earlier this week, 34 people gathered to attend the Teacher Accreditation Program presented by trainer Betty Starzec. Starzec said that it was one of the most dynamic groups she has ever taught.

Twenty-three members of this group stayed after the completion of the TAP to attend the NABC Accredited Teachers Dinner, hosted by Julie Greenberg, ACBL Director of Education. There was a full house in attendance.

This regular NABC event is a social evening for the teachers — a chance to get to know each other, exchange ideas, meet with Audrey Grant and play Bridge Bingo!

ACBL CEO David Silber addressed the group and thanked the teachers. Silber told the group ACBL recognizes that 70% of all new members come from teaching programs.

How low can you get?

Robert Levin found an imaginative defense on this deal from the final of the Grand National Teams, Flight A. Levin was playing with partner Michael Seamon.

Leading trumps against a two-suited declarer (especially where his partner has indicated a strong preference) is the traditional way for the defense to proceed against this type of auction, and that's exactly what Seamon did.

Declarer won the trump lead in his hand, played three rounds of diamonds pitching a club, and played a low spade from dummy. Since the defenders wanted to lead more trumps so that declarer couldn't ruff out their spade winners, Levin ducked, hoping Seamon could win the trick to continue the trump attack.

Seamon won the ♠Q and played a trump. Declarer won in hand and played the ♠J, running it when Seamon played low. When Levin won the ace, he then switched to a low club. Seamon produced the ♣Q and played a third round of trumps. Declarer was now doomed to lose another black-suit trick, and finished down one.

Levin's play of underleading (or ducking) two sets of ace-kings on a single deal is spectacular, but declarer can always make the contract with careful play. Although playing three rounds of diamonds after winning the opening lead looks tempting, it destroys a valuable entry to declarer's hand. The right line is to win the opening trump lead and immediately lead a spade. East can win and play another round of trumps, but declarer wins and ruffs a spade in dummy. Crossing to the preserved ♦A, another spade ruff follows. Declarer now cashes the top diamonds in dummy, pitching a club, and crosses to the closed hand with a trump. Declarer can then claim, conceding a spade and a club.

An incredible bid by Hall-of-Famer Lazard

Bart Bramley, during his introduction of Sidney Lazard as a new member of the ACBL Hall of Fame, told of a hand played by Lazard that defied description. He said that the bidding was out of this world and that the play matched the bidding. He looked across at Daily Bulletin Editor Henry Francis and said, "Henry, this is something the Daily Bulletin should use."

Well, we don't often use a hand that is almost 50 years old, and we don't often use rubber bridge hands even if it's a high stakes game. But we figured we should go for it if Bramley said it was that good. As usual, Bramley was right - here's that marvelous hand.

 ♣ A K 9 8 3 2

Lazard, South, was a bit surprised to hear Bill Hanna, his RHO, open the bidding 1♣. But he knew his opponent - this man was a frequent psycher. Lazard also knew that East usually had length in the suit in which he psyched. So he took the wait-and-see approach and passed. West responded 1♠, and after North, Marshall Miles, passed, East confirmed the fact that his opening bid was a psych by passing.

Finding a bid, knowing that RHO really had length in clubs but nothing else, was a challenge for Lazard. He finally decided on 2NT. He was quite taken aback when he heard West bid 3♥. West also knew East had practically nothing, so West had to have considerable strength. North passed and East went into the tank. Finally he raised to 4♥.

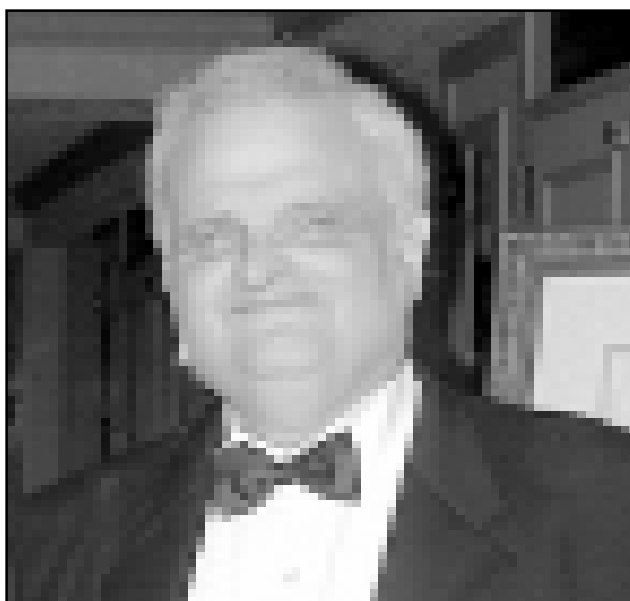

Lazard found this most interesting. He was virtually certain that East was not deciding between 4♥ and Pass. He finally reasoned that East was thinking of returning to spades, then finally raised hearts.

Very interesting indeed! This meant that East probably had five clubs to the queen for his club psych, four hearts to raise partner's second suit and probably three spades to think of returning to partner's first suit. That left room for only one diamond.

What about West? What would his hand look like? Well, Lazard reasoned, he had to have a very good two-suiter to bid to the three level by himself - probably 6-5 in spades and hearts. But that left room for a maximum of two diamonds.

Lazard reasoned that his partner had at least six diamonds, a tremendous asset even though it was reasonably certain that partner was nearly broke. Lazard of course realized how much better this made his hand look, so he took the bull by the horns and bid the diamond slam, even though he had only a four-card suit.

He was totally accurate, as you can see from the full deal. West led hearts, and Lazard ruffed the second with his ace. He cashed the king and crossed to dummy, overtaking his 9 with the jack. Ruffing with the ace and unblocking the 9 was absolutely necessary -- entries to dummy would prove to be crucial. Lazard also realized the problems he would cause himself if he tried to ruff dummy's other heart, so he led the ♣J. East covered, and Lazard took his king. He crossed back to dummy with the trump queen and cashed another diamond. That left this six-card position:

♠ Q 10
 ♥ J

♠ K J 7      ♠ 9 8

 ♦ --      ♦ --
 ♣ --      ♣ 10 7 6 5

♠ A 3
 ♥ --
 ♣ A 9 8 3

Lazard called for another diamond, and East felt the squeeze. He had to keep all his clubs, so he was forced to give up a spade. Lazard led a club to his 9 and cashed the ♠K. This card put West in the vice.

♠ Q

Lazard led the ♣8 and West had to find a discard. He could see the ♥J, so he pitched the ♠J. Lazard ruffed and led to his ♠A, dropping the king. He scored his 12th trick with the ♠3.

Magnificent!

Rodwell finds the way

Eric Rodwell and Jeff Meckstroth, playing for the Florida team that successfully defended its title in Flight A of the Grand National Teams, arrived at a slightly ambitious notrump slam on this deal from the last quarter of the final against California. Now that he was in slam, it was up to Rodwell to find the line that would succeed.

- All Pass
- (1) Strong, forcing and artificial.
  - (2) Positive response indicating clubs.
  - (3) Shows spades.
  - (4) Extra values but no spade fit.
  - (5) A slam try in spades

Rodwell was not willing to stop in game -- he felt the fit and the high cards made a slam at least plausible. He felt even better about it when 4♦ was doubled -- now any diamond finesse was likely to work.

East led a spade and Rodwell cashed two rounds of the suit, learning that he could run the suit. However, he put off cashing the spades -- he thought he might run into discarding problems. He saw several prospects -- maybe the queen-jack of clubs would fall doubleton, maybe both diamond finesses would work, maybe a squeeze would develop.

His next move was to lead a club to the 10, which lost to the queen. He finessed the queen on the diamond return and cashed his top clubs -- the suit didn't break 3-3. He cashed the ♦A and East contributed the king.

After cashing three more spades, this was the position:

 ♥ A J

♠ --      ♠ --
 ♥ K Q      ♥ 10 5
 ♦ --      ♦ J
 ♣ J      ♣ --

When Rodwell led his last spade, what was West to do? If he sluffed his club, dummy's ♣7 would be good. But if threw a heart, dummy's ace-jack would take the last two tricks. This was a major gain because California stopped in 3NT in the other room, making five, for a 13-IMP swing to Florida.

Bidding Zero Tolerance

You can actually bid "Zero Tolerance" at the Scottsdale Bridge in Arizona.

Yellow Zero Tolerance cards are in the bid boxes and they have had a positive influence on behavior, according to club owner Jan Bricklin.

Players are asked to flash a ZT card to an offending player (or players) when they feel intimidated or abused. If the bad manners continue, the offended players can call the director and get a ZT ruling.

"There are too many new players who are simply afraid to call the director when unruly behavior occurs," said Bricklin. "These cards can be very useful. I think they are a very good reminder."

Dana Harbor Bridge Center brings in New Players

The "Coffee with Jane" program Saturday morning had standing room only. Club managers throughout North America were there to learn from Jane Johnson, ACBL Director of Clubs and Membership, and to learn from each other.

Fran and Linda Foresta of Dana Harbor Unit 538, Dana Point CA, had this wonderful report: "We have many players in our area that have 0-20 masterpoints. With the Anaheim NABC happening in our own backyard and with such an emphasis on the Intermediate/Newcomer players, we decided to do a "Get Ready for the Nationals" program.

We did a large mailing detailing the program to all of the players in our data bank that had fewer than 20 MPs, as well as a list of students from our Newcomer and Intermediate teachers, Linda Golden and Susan Benon. It was a six-week program starting mid-June, that was held one day per week that featured a two-hour lecture followed by snacks and a supervised-play Newcomer game with masterpoints. The fee was $25 for the whole six weeks or $5 per individual lesson.

We were hoping for 20-25 players to attend, but were staggered when 59 excited bridge players attended our first class. We had an average attendance of 50, and 27 of the new players joined the ACBL.

We had a special surprise when Audrey Grant, learning of our program, offered to do a workshop called "Five Tips to Improve your Defense" while she was in the area.

Even though it was the peak of vacation season, it didn't dampen the enthusiasm of these new players, many of whom are here this week playing in Newcomer games as their first tournament experience.

		♣ K Q J 9 6 5 4 3

West	North	East	South
Fricker		Eng
1♦	1♥	Pass	2♣
4♦	4♥	All Pass

Insa Fricker decided to start with a simple 1♦ despite her eight-card suit. North, of course, overcalled in hearts and South naturally showed his clubs. Now Fricker leaped to the four level, and North had a choice – he could show support for his partner's clubs with three to the ace or he could rebid his hearts. Clubs would have been the better choice under the circumstances, but North chose to bid the heart game.

North actually made the contract despite the horrendous trump split. Eng quickly took the blame – "I should have pushed a spade through as soon as I took my first trump trick." If he had done so, the game would have been beaten one trick. As it was, North-South were plus 420.

The auction was much more exciting at the other table:

West	North	East	South
	Moffatt		Lambert
5♦	Pass	Pass	6♣
Pass	7♣	7♦	Pass
Pass	Dbl	All Pass

West went all out preemptively with a five bid, but that didn't bother Gilbert Lambert – he thought his eight-card club suit was worth a bid at the six level. Now the spotlight fell on Michael Moffatt. He had just heard his partner bid a slam – and he was looking at all those goodies including two aces, one of which is the ♣A. He felt that was enough to bid the grand, so he did. East believed North was on the right track, so he decided to take the save at 7♦ – he knew his side wasn't going to take any diamond tricks. Moffatt of course doubled.

Declarer lost two spades, a club and a heart for down four – minus 800. That would be a good result if 7♣ actually was a make. But when the players studied the hand, they discovered that the bad heart break would prevent declarer from getting rid of two spades on good hearts. So 7♣ would go down one.

The actual result earned the Canadians 9 IMPs. If Lambert had been permitted to play the club grand, the Canadians would have lost 10 IMPs – a swing of 19 IMPs. And they won by only 17.

Parking

The rates for parking at the two hotels are different. At the Marriott, the rates to park all day are $7.00 for self parking if you are a registered guest at the hotel, and $10.00 for players who are not registered guests. Valet parking at the Marriott is $14.00 per day. At the Hilton the rates are $9.00 per day, guest or not, for self parking, and $13.00 a day for valet parking. Valet has in-and-out privilege. Self parkers should check with the attendant for in-and-out.

Caddy couple to wed

A pair of caddies who are regulars at the NABCs are engaged to be married next summer.

Rebecca Wickham, 22, of Naperville IL and Jeremy Mooi, 21, of Bolingbrook IL met three years ago. Wickham, who had been caddying at the NABCs for 10 years, invited Mooi to join her as a caddy at an upcoming tournament. He agreed, and the couple has been working at the NABCs since.

Wickham is a bank supervisor, and Mooi is a manager at a fast food restaurant. They were engaged in December of last year, and have set the date of their wedding for June 15, 2001.

Attention smokers

The state of California strictly enforces its smoking ordinances. There have been numerous complaints about smoking taking place in the restrooms. This is against the rules and must be brought under control. Also ACBL regulations ban smoking in the playing area as well as in the main entrances and exits to the playing areas.

No more VPs for ACBL

The office of vice president of the ACBL didn't last long. Jim Kirkham was elected to that post when it became operative last year, but the Board of Directors discontinued the office during its deliberations last week. Kirkham will fill out his term, but no vice president will be elected for next year.

Section top awards

If you win your section we have a gift for you. Pick it up the day after you win at the Hospitality Desk of the Hilton Hotel.

Head-Fakes, Wiggles & Sighs

By Bob Johnstone

Bob Johnstone is a Diamond Life Master who lives in Portland OR. He is a regular contributor to the Contract Bridge Forum, District 20's monthly publication.

In the days before bid boxes, I played a lot with Hendrik Sharples, who had one habit it took me a while to understand.

Often we would conduct an auction that was clearly over (1NT-Pass-3NT-Pass) and yet Hendrik would hesitate noticeably before his final pass. Either he had found another ace or ... he was being super-ethical. The latter was the case. He had developed the practice of counting off a "one-one-thousand, two-one-thousand" cadence to himself to keep all his bids in tempo.

The truth is that we all give off body language all the time. It is almost impossible for an observant person to play steadily with a partner (or opponent) without noticing minor variations in tempo and gestures.

Bridge is not poker, however, and only two forms of communication are authorized between partners: the bids we make and the cards we play.

At the Spingold and Bermuda Bowl level, this problem is now dealt with by screens, at least in the later rounds. Screens are logistically and socially impossible, however, for routine club games or tournaments.

So what do you do about hesitation complaints which so often are a misunderstood and bitter interlude in the game we play for fun?

Here are some suggestions to minimize friction and maximize joy:

- Never make eye contact with your partner during bidding or play.

- Decide firmly on your bid before you reach for the bid box. Multiple head-fakes (or hand-fakes) at the box create the impression that more than one bid was considered.

- Make all your routine bids (including passes) in a steady tempo after counting off a short cadence. A fast pass or slow pass (when compared to normal tempo) conveys a message and may create an ethical problem for partner.

- After skip-bids (the stop card), count off a double cadence before bidding (the back of the stop card says 10 seconds). Again, a fast pass may be interpreted as telling partner not to compete whereas an unnaturally slow pass could be read as encouraging a bid by partner.

- Avoid facial gestures or other body language during the bidding and play.

- If declarer leads a jack, apparently looking for a queen on a two-way guess, play your deuce in the same tempo whether you have the queen or not. Academy Award hesitations (coffee-housing) to deceive the opponents are fine in poker but strictly illegal in bridge.

- Remember that bridge is for fun. If newer players violate these rules, it is almost always innocently. A gentle hint after the game, as opposed to an acrimonious director call at the table, is exactly what Mary Poppins would prescribe.

A gracious demeanor is infectious -- spread it around.

Cell phones restrictions enacted

At its meetings this week, the ACBL Board of Directors has voted to restrict the use of cell phones and other similar equipment. The Board passed the following policy, effective immediately: "Except for health-related equipment or by permission of the Director-in-Charge of the tournament or event, cell phones, audible pagers, and similar electronic equipment may not be operated or operable in the playing area during a session of play at NABCs. All other ACBL tournament sponsors are strongly encouraged to adopt this policy."

Bridge Baron

Bridge Baron has donated 1000 demo CDs of their popular program. Pick one up – first-come, first-served, at the Hospitality Desk of either hotel. Also, discount coupons are available.
